HEARING CONDUCTED IN STEVENS DEATH

A preliminary hearing in the case of the death of Mrs. Shirley Stevens who was killed in Drayton Valley, near the intersection of 50th Street and 50th Avenue, just before 4:00 a.m. on May 15th, 1960, by a pickup truck owned by Shirley Trucking Ltd. and operated by Mr. Kenneth Cocks, who is employed with Shirley, was held in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall in Drayton Valley, before Magistrate Cledemings, on Tuesday, June 21.

Mr. S.A. Friedman was Crown Prosecutor and Mr. Arnold Mole, Q.C. was counsel for the defence. Mr. Cocks was charged with criminal negligence in the death of Mrs. Stevens under section 192 of the Criminal Code of Canada, and also with section 221, subsection 2, of the Criminal Code, which deals with failing to stop at the scene of an accident. At the opening of the hearing Defence lawyer Mole said the defence had elected for trial by judge and jury at a later date.

Prosecution called their first witness soon after court convened. First witness was Corporal George Laidlaw, of the R.C.M.P. Identification Branch who was called to the scene of the accident on May 15 and took photos of the vehicle involved, of the tire, etc. On the following day Corporal Laidlaw took a picture of Mrs. Stevens in the University Hospital Morgue.

The photos were introduced as court exhibits. Next to be called to the witness stand was Mr. Clarence Gordon Koch, now living in Devon, who was with Mr. and Mrs. Stevens on the evening preceding and at the time of the fatal accident. Mr. Koch testified at length about events leading up to the time of the accident and immediately after. It was he who placed the call to the police after Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were struck by the vehicle. Mr. Koch stated that when he heard the vehicle coming he shouted to Mr. and Mrs. Stevens to run off the road; Mr. Koch then ran to the west side of the street, but the Stevens, who were a little behind Mr. Koch, turned back to the east side of the street and were struck by the oncoming vehicle. He said that dawn was just breaking at the time and visibility was poor. Following the accident he ran to the police office and notified the police who called the doctors and the ambulance. He then returned to the scene of the accident and the ambulance and doctors arrived a few minutes later.

Next called to the witness stand was Mr. Stevens who also recounted events leading up to the time of the accident. He stated that he could not recall events immediately preceding the accident, or

ALBERTA INDUSTRY EXPANDS

The new 11 by 340-foot rotary cement kiln is part of a $4,500,000 expansion project officially opened Friday by Premier Manning, at the Inland Cement Company Limited plant, northwest of Edmonton. The kiln consumes 3,000,000 cu. ft. of natural gas in the production of some 14,400 sacks of portland cement per day. It will increase production at the four-year-old plant by more than 50 per cent, to 13,500,000 sacks of cement per year.

Premier E. C. Manning, Friday, June 10, officially opened a $4,500,000 extension to the Inland Cement Company Limited plant in the Municipal District of Stoney Plain, at the northwest limits of Edmonton.

The addition of a new 340-foot rotary kiln with mills, silos and related facilities is the latest development in the four years of operations that have seen production at Inland more than triple since the company began manufacturing in March, 1956. The production potential at the plant is now 13,500,000 sacks of portland cement per year.

Some 70 guests, businessmen, city and provincial leaders, attended the opening ceremonies at which the Premier, assisted by B. F. Williams, vice-president of Northwestern Utilities, laid the gas-fired kiln. Company officials in attendance included five directors: they were Andre Jodel, of Brussels, Belgium; and four Alberta businessmen, Fred Jenner, Hugh Pearson, Clair Manning and Nathan E. Tanner.

Premier Manning told the group that in the last 25 years, Alberta has developed from primarily an agricultural area to one of the highly industrialized areas of Canada.

The growth and development of Inland Cement here has been closely parallel to the rapid growth and development of industry in Alberta the Premier said.

He commended the company for its confidence in the continued expansion of Alberta's economic development.

W. S. Ziegler, Executive Vice-President of Inland Cement, briefly outlined the history of the company in Alberta.

Inland was established here in 1956 at a time when Alberta suffered a cement shortage, he said.

The establishment of the Inland plant alleviated the shortage and facilitated the rapid development of the area. The decision to settle here, and the faith of the directors of the company in their decision, has been amply justified he commented.

Mr. Ziegler pointed out that, because of earlier shortages, many industries have not yet taken full advantage of the possibilities of cement. Inland will continue a program of education in this field, he said.

NEW KILN SPECTACULAR.

The new kiln is a spectacular step in this dynamic record of growth. Here are its specifications: It is 11 feet in diameter and 340 feet long; a single revolving steel tube lined with highly heat-resistant brick. It is supported on five heavy concrete and steel piers and rotated about once per minute by a 125 h.p. motor. The kiln consumes 3,000,000 cu. ft. of natural gas per day in heating the burning zone to 2,700 degrees F. Raw material fed into the upper end flows through the kiln, is dried, calcined and processed, and is discharged two hours later as portland cement clinker.

Other facilities built to handle the increased volume of production from the new kiln included: Two cement mills, to grind cement clinker into finished portland

Some will be adjusted automatically. Simplified, here is the process for manufacturing Inland portland cement: Limestone, clay, silica and iron oxide are the basic raw materials of the cement manufactured at Inland.

In the first steps of the process, the limestone is ground, mixed with water and predetermined proportions of sand, clay and iron oxide.

This mixture, called slurry, is fed to a battery of blending tanks and mixed to the proper analysis, determined and checked at the plant laboratory.

The raw slurry material is then pumped into the rotary kiln where it is heated to a temperature of 2,700 degrees F.

As the raw material moves through the kiln, certain materials are driven off in the form of gases. The remaining substance unite to form a new substance with its own chemical and physical characteristics. The new substance (clinker) is cooled after coming from the kiln. It is then ready for the final grinding.

The cooled clinker is ground with about four per cent gypsum. The gypsum acts as an agent in controlling the setting qualities of the finished portland cement.

The finished cement is stored in a set of 18 massive concrete silos from which it is shipped, either in bulk or in strong paper sacks, via train or truck. For sack loading, the cement is injected by mechanical means through a self-closing valve in the sack. In Canada, a sack of cement is 97-1/2 pounds -- the weight of one cubic foot.

The new facilities at Inland provide for loading of bulk cement into trains on one set of tracks and at the same time sack loading on another track.

The Inland plant is located on a 330-acre site in the Municipal District of Stoney Plain at the North west limits of Edmonton.

A second Inland plant, also developing rapidly, serves the Saskatchewan area from Regina. The major part of the raw materials used at the Edmonton plant are obtained in Alberta. Limestone, the principal material, is obtained from Inland's quarry at Cadomin, 180 miles southwest of Edmonton. Clay is obtained from the company's own pit at the plant site. Iron oxide is purchased from Sherritt-Gordon at Fort Saskatchewan and sand is obtained from deposits west of Edmonton. Gypsum is obtained from Lake Windermere, B.C.

The uses of cement, as the most versatile material of the construction industry, are well-known.

Construction associated with the kiln includes: an eight by thirty-year foot cooling bed with an air pump pumping 81,000 cu. ft. of air per minute and an electrical collection system and exhaust in that can handle gases from the kiln at the rate of 125,000 cubic feet per minute. There is virtually no air pollution from the plant.

The consulting engineer was A. I. Anderson of Pryor, Oklahoma. The project and design engineers were the Foundation Company of Canada Engineering Corporation. The general contractor for the expansion project was Burn and Dutton. The slurry and cement storage silos were built by Poole Construction.

30% PRODUCTION INCREASE Two kilns, of the same dimension are presently in operation at Inland. They can produce a total of about 24,000 sacks per day. Engineers estimate that the new kiln, embodying several new design features, will turn out some 14,400 sacks per day -- well over a 50 per cent increase in total production potential at the plant.

Production Manager, A. P. Robinson, says a significant improvement in the life of the fire-resistant brick lining of the kiln is expected, mainly through smoother operation and increased thermal control. The kiln and its allied equipment are controlled from a single electronic panel. Instruments will record temperatures, operating speed and pressures at various points of the process.

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

By Hugh M. Homer, M.D., M.P.,

House of Commons
Canada

Over the past two months the Agriculture Committee has been discussing the question of grain elevators to feed mills in Western Canada. For the past 22 years the local mills have been buying grain outside Wheat Board regulations. Now the Board has said they intend to enforce the regulations. This will cause a great deal of harm to the local mills.

However, there is evidence on both sides. It seems to me that our decision must take into account the long term effects on a livestock industry. There is a good argument that we should encourage the complete feed industry to improve our livestock feeding program in the West, provided that this would not interfere in any way with the orderly marketing of grain through the Wheat Board for interprovincial and export sales. The Committee will

LET HIM IN

By Rev. J. Wulff of the Drayton Valley Church of God. Unobserved as most of us are, we may pass through countless doors in the course of a year without even being aware of a action. This summer this will happen to all of us again as we enter into camps, summer recreation programs, or summer vacations. Nearly everyone can deliver into his past and recall a number of moments which opened or closed important phases of his life.

From Holy Birth to Resurrection, doors played an important part in Jesus' life and teachings, too. Unlike us, He doubtless was sharply aware of each one of them. He crossed these thresholds to raise the dead, cure the ill, confound and defeat His adversaries, and teach the Word of our Father; often, attracting so many followers that "there was no room to receive them, not so much as about the door." Mark 12:1.

It might be said that the first portal which Jesus encountered was the last one to bar the Master. This was, of course, the door to the Inn at Bethlehem on that first Christmas—an excellent symbol of Man, whom Christ came to save. Full money pouches had used it to open many times on its smooth hinges; but it remained tightly closed against the Saviour. Some 30 years later, man again tried to evict Jesus from the world with a cross, and a spear and a hammer, and a nail. How ineffective that last attempt was we all know.

But was it the last attempt? Jesus was little, if at all, concerned with physical doors of whatever size and strength. What He sought was entrance to man's hearts. These are the doors at which He stands and He knocks today, and to which we hold the latchkeys. But let us glory in our temporary power to keep him out, let us remember that we all, one day, must stand at the door of his judgement and knock.

"For many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are." Luke 13:24, 25.

Rev. James Russell Brown.

Tuesday, June 14 was quite a big day with Rev. Russell Brown, recently appointed pastor of All Saints Anglican Church in Drayton Valley. On that day Mr. Brown was ordained to the priesthood and his wife, Ruth, presented him with a daughter, Catharine Elizabeth.

James Russell Brown was born in Edmonton and attended school there. He enrolled in the University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon and Emmanuel College the Anglican theological school which is connected with the University of Saskatchewan. He received his L. T. H. from Emmanuel. Later, while serving a parish in Edmonton he took post-graduate work at the University of Alberta.

In June of 1959 he was ordained as a deacon and to the Priesthood in June, this year. He was for some time the minister in charge of Sunday School by Post, and has been a camp Counsellor and staff member at the Kapuskin Youth camp, on Lake Wabamun. He has served missions at Onoway

There were about eleven of our own group and about 8 of the Christian Fellowship group present. After playing ball for about an hour and a half we played dodge ball until dark. Then we made the fire for our weiner roast. After we had eaten Mr. Madson went out a birthday cake for Kenny. Later we made ourselves comfortable around the fire and sang choruses and gave testimonies. Visitors to our meeting were: Tori Swan, Vera Magnus, Grant Ward and Harvey Ottum. We were glad to see them out we hope they will attend regularly.

JUDGE NOT
Almost everyone knows that the story of the Ugly Duckling. But when it is a duckling, bulble, or snail involved, no one has a right to judge its ultimate worth—nor even one's "own". For no one, save God, can have any idea of a living thing's final value.

Have you ever seen the start of a sculptor's work? What ends as a graceful, heroic masterpiece in bronze begins as an ungainly, angular shoddy to which the sculptor adds ugly clay, blob by blob. Only in the relatively late stages of his work does the artist begin to press and pare and score his clay pattern into the flowing lines and boldly beautiful proportions of the finished product.

Many of us, looking back, already can discern the Master's hand in shaping our own "lumps of clay". Many others cannot. But for each Christian's duty to let Him have free rein, to look for His beautiful handiwork everywhere, in everyone; and to work and wait in love and faith until it becomes visible to the most ardent disbeliever—surely, it will.

WHICH INDIAN TRIBE CRYMATED ITS DEAD??

The Tahltan Indians, sometimes called the Western Nahani, a tribe occupying the valleys of the upper Stikine and Taku rivers in northern British Columbia. They practiced two customs that were unusual among the natives of Canada. In addition to cremating the dead, they constructed communal houses for the unmarried males. At the time of their first contact with Europeans, the Tahltan spent their summers as salmon fishermen, the winters in hunting and the autumn in trading with neighbouring tribes. They lacked both snowshoes and sleds and depended on a crude toboggan drawn by the women. Present members of the tribe earn a living as hunters and trappers in their old area.

LIONS RODEO

Drayton Valley's Annual Lions Rodeo is already underway, at least so far as preparations are concerned. There is some talk of several added attractions at the Rodeo this year. Mentioned among the possibilities are a waterfilled tank in which divers will show their stuff.

Business firms are donating extra prize money this year so the pot for the cowboys should be a little fatter this year. None but topflight cowboys are on hand for the local Rodeo which is accredited by the Cowboys Protective Association.

Additional prizes will be given for the parade this year also. If the list of donors is complete by the next issue they will be printed.

Lions members are working hard getting the Rodeo grounds in shape for the big two-day event which takes place Friday and Saturday, July 29 and 30.

Merit badges and awards are being handed out to enthusiastic Cubes at the recent Father and Son Cub banquet held in Scout Hall.

WHAT DOES RESTIGOUCHE MEANT?

No one is quite sure of the meaning of this name which has been applied to one of Canada's most famous salmon rivers, to a county in northern New Brunswick and to a Quebec community on the north shore of the river's estuary. Restigouche is a rendering of the Micmac word Luts-a-gooch, but the meaning of Luts-a-gooch is obscure. It has been variously translated as "five-fingered river," "river branching like a hand," "big river" or "river of the long way."

"I can catch the fish train," explained the farmer, "if you'll let me cut across your field." "Go ahead," said the farmer, "but you'll catch the 5:45 if my bull spots you."

HEARING CONDUCTED IN STEVENSON DISTRICT

The time of the call he said, was 10 minutes to four, on the morning of May 15. He said that after taking care of details at the scene of the accident, he got Constable Wessel of the Drayton Valley R.C.M.P. barracks and they went north in search of the vehicle that had been involved in the accident. On the way, after they had gone about five or six miles north, they received word on the radio-telephone from the Drayton Valley barracks that the vehicle involved had returned to the scene of the accident and was being held in the Town Hall Garage.

Chief Constable McLeod also testified that he arrived at the scene of the accident a few minutes after four a.m. He said that the ambulance was there and was just picking up the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens. He said that later the truck driven by Mr. Cooke returned to the scene of the accident and Mr. Cooke stated that he had been the driver at the time that Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were struck.

Gustav Schmidt who was with the Hutchinsons' and the Cooke's on the evening preceding the accident was the last witness the Crown called upon for testimony. Mr. Schmidt related various incidents both before and after the time of the accident.

The pathologist's report of the examination made in the University Hospital morgue on Mr. Steven's blood was entered as exhibit, but was not read, pending the calling of the jury trial to be held later.

Counsel for the defence stated that they were reserving defence until the time of the higher court trial, and the prosecution stated they would rest the case upon the evidence.

Aggravate Clendenning then stated that having heard the evidence he was satisfied that there was sufficient evidence to send the case to higher court, and he committed Mr. Cooke to stand trial in Edmonton court on Tuesday, September 6, 1960.

Defense counsel pointed out that Mr. Cooke is employed in Drayton Valley and is a resident here and requested that his bail be reduced from the former $10,000, property bail to a more reasonable $2,000, property bail. This request the court granted and the hearing was adjourned.

Town Manager Resigns

At the last regular Council meeting of the Town of Drayton Valley on Thursday, June 23, the resignation of Town Manager Beatty Cumming was read to the Council. After expressing regrets at the resignation of Mr. Cumming, Council voted to accept the resignation, which will thereby become effective on July 15th.

Mr. Cumming has been in Drayton Valley since 1956 when the Department of Municipal Affairs appointed him as Secretary-Treasurer of the new Town of Drayton Valley. He was elected Town Manager by vote of the ratepayers in 1957.

His wife, Elva, has been employed in the Town office as secretary a position she has filled efficiently and graciously. The Cummings' have built a home in Drayton Valley; their son Jackie, has been to school here. The Cummings' have not announced their future plans.

T. B. Clinic Comes To D. V. July 6

The Free Chest X-Ray Clinic will come to Drayton Valley on July 6th. It will be set up in the Elks Community Hall.

The Mobile T. B. X-ray clinic is offered to the general public in this community in the interest of T. B. control. It is not compulsory and no one is obliged to attend. However it is requested that everyone turn out to the clinic.

Special efforts should be made to see that all food handlers attend the clinic, as well as OLDER AGE GROUPS, teachers, clerks, nurses, janitors, maids, orderlies and all other persons meeting the public. Experience has shown that the age group over 40 makes the poorest showing at the clinic. It is in this age group that the most tuberculosis is found, proportionately to other age groups.

No one should spend more than five to eight minutes at the clinic to obtain an X-ray. Thus, if a family is unable to keep its appointment at such time as specified on the appointment card, they are urged to stand anyway.

The waste of time, effort and money in X-raying only a portion of your community is evident, when you consider the possibility that an active case of tuberculosis might remain undiscovered. Every available person should take advantage of the opportunity to have a FREE CHEST X-RAY.

On the average, out of every thousand people X-rayed one will be found to have tuberculosis. There will be about twenty with other significant chest abnormalities, such as tumors, heart conditions, cancer. All are reported confidentially to the patient, and to his family physician.

Usually tuberculosis in the early stages shows no symptoms but can be discovered by X-ray.

Steve Serenas Wins Trophy For Racing Car

After winning his run in the St. Albert Soap Box Derby for the second year Drayton Valley's Steve Serenas was named out in the Edmonton races by Richard Skirrow, whom he named out in last year's events to win a trip to B.C. for the Canadian finals last year.

Steve won trophies and other prizes for his win in the St. Albert race. In Edmonton, although failing to qualify for the Canadian finals, he won first place for the "Best Constructed Buggy".

The picture above shows young Stephen with some of the trophies he won, and with the racing car, which he constructed himself, according to the requirements of the Soap Box Derby meet, and for which he won first place this year.

Steve carved the buggy out of two inch planks which he shaped into the sleek little racing car seen in the picture.
